Statue of liberty

The Statue of Liberty (Liberty Enlightening the World, French: La Liberté éclairant le monde) is a colossal neo-classical sculpture on Liberty Island in New York Harbor, designed by Frédéric Bartholdi and dedicated on October 28, 1886. The statue, a gift to the United States from the people of France, is of a robed female figure representing Libertas, the Roman goddess of Freedom, who bears a torch and a tablet inscribed in Latin evoking the Latin words which is inscribed the date of the American Declaration of Independence. A broken chain lies at her feet. The statue has become an icon of the Central park

Central Park is a public park in the center of Manhattan in New York City, United States. The park actually opened in 1857, on 843 acres (3.41 km2) of city-owned land. In 1858, Frederick Law Olmsted and Calvert Vaux won a design competition to improve and expand the park, with a plan they entitled the Greenward Plan. Construction began the same year and was completed in 1873.

Downtown

There are 13,967 taxis operating in New York City, not including over 40,000 other for-hire vehicles (HVs). Their distinctive yellow paint has made them New York icons. Taxis are operated by private companies and licensed by the New York City Taxi and Limousine Commission. "Medallion taxis", the familiar yellow cabs, are the only vehicles in the city permitted to pick up passengers in response to a street hail. A cab's availability is indicated by the lights on the top of the car. When just the center light, showing the medallion number is lit, the cab is empty and available. When no lights are lit, the cab is occupied by passengers.

Flat iron building

The Flatiron Building, or Fuller Building, as it was originally called, is located at 175 Fifth Avenue in the borough of Manhattan, New York City and is considered to be a groundbreaking skyscraper. Upon completion in 1902 it was one of the tallest buildings in the city and the only skyscraper north of 14th Street. The building sits on a triangular island block formed by Fifth Avenue, Broadway and East 23rd Street, with 23rd Street forming the triangle's northern (uptown) peak. It anchors the south (downtown) end of Madison Square, and the north (uptown) end of the Ladies' Mile Historic District.

Brooklyn bridge

The Brooklyn Bridge is one of the oldest suspension bridges in the United States. Completed in 1883, it connects the New York City boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn by spanning the East River. With a main span of 1,595.5 feet (486.3 m), it was the longest suspension bridge in the world from its opening until 1903, and the first steel-wire suspension bridge.
